The Conwy Castle is located in Conwy, Aberconwy and Colwyn North Wales. Built by the English monarch Edward 1 between 1283 and 1289. The castle’s building period was 1283 to 1287. It is made up of eight huge towers and looming walls.

Three sides of the castle are surrounded by water. It is positioned on a rocky outcrop. Its position and size was a great advantage to the military.

Conwy Castle was very high in security. It had defenses such as a drawbridge, fortified towers and steep stairways. There are 142 arrow slits and gateways at each end.
